As midsummer approaches, we hope you are able to enjoy some time out in the summer sunshine along with the birds and flowers and bees and butterflies. Many challenges are still with us but each day offers us little gifts of beauty if we allow ourselves a moment or two to pause, notice and savour.
This phase of the year between planting and harvesting is traditionally a time to take some rest where we can. May you be blessed with little gifts of pause and beauty as we journey through the height of these summer days.
